The Aggie Transcript: Psychology Editor Application Requirements

Thank you for your interest in The Aggie Transcript: Psychology! This document contains information about the application requirements for the editor position at our journal. This quarter (Spring 2023), the board has decided to accept rolling applications. As such, there is no deadline to submit applications this quarter.

1. Please submit:
   a. Anonymized resume (one page)
   b. Anonymized cover letter where, in addition to traditional subject matter one would include in a cover letter, you answer at least one of the following questions. (one-two pages)
      i. If you could write a piece about any psychology-related topic and publish it in our journal, what would that piece be about, and why? What genre would you write it in, and who would be your target audience?
      ii. What is one psychology-related topic that fascinates you, and why?
      iii. Name one psychology-related idea that you believe has real-world relevance. To whom is this topic relevant, and why?
      iv. If you were to educate the public about one psychology-related concept, what would it be and how would you go about it?
   c. At least one writing sample (may vary in length, but please ensure that the sample(s) you select are long enough to demonstrate your academic writing ability)
   d. Class schedule

2. We’re looking for:
   a. Students interested in writing and editing
   b. Students interested in psychology, human development, cognitive science, or related fields
   c. No prior experience is required
   d. Open to all majors

3. Requirements and Responsibilities:
   a. 3-4 hour weekly commitment
   b. Eligible for MCB/PSC/CGS/UWP/ENL 199 units
   c. Submit one piece (writing or art) to our journal per quarter
   d. Plan and execute The Aggie Transcript: Psychology initiatives
   e. Attend weekly board meetings (this quarter, Sundays from 4-5PM)

Please send your application to aggietranscriptpsych@gmail.com. We look forward to receiving your application!